Bout-Dugan's Clever Work Later in the Pight-A Burge the Scene of the Mill. A rattling glove contest was fought by Fimmy Larkins, of Jersey City, and Con Dugan, of Brooklyn, rival 123-pound pugil-ists, on a barge early this morning.

The "mill" was for a $200 purse, and as Dugan refused to strip until that amount was made up, several trips had to be made among the would-be spectators with a hat before even $150 clear of expenses were realized.

It was after 1 o'clock when the men stripped for the battle. Dugan was seconded by Jack Fallon and Paddy Smith, Brooklyn's heavy and light weight champions, and Larkins was waited on by M. Moran, the clever amateur feather weight, and Ed Cahill, the amateur light weight. George Early and Steve Brodie kept the time, while a well-known sporting writer was referee. The gloves were two-ounce ones.

was referee. The gloves were two-ounce ones.

The first round was fought in good style, Dugan standing up to his work eleverly and replying to Larkins's swinging rights with good left-hand straight counters. He landed repeatedly on the Jerseyman's nose and eyes.

Kushed applause encouraged the clever fighters to even better efforts in the second round, in which Larkius seemed the better man. Dugan got in one tremendous left-handed swinging crack in this round, which made Larkins's friends shift uneasily in their seats.

Few of them noticed, though, a moment

Few of them noticed, though, a moment later, what was really more serious for their man's chances. In trying to land a swinging cross-counter Larkins almost broke his right wrist. He twisted it badly and used it with caution during the rest of the battle.

The third, fourth, fifth and sixth rounds were much alike, Larkins apparently having it all his own way, but every now and then Dugan would get in a good straight counter on nose or body that told its tale.

Dugan's clever work in the seventh, eighth and ninth rounds were so much admired as to almost make nim a favorite in the betting over his taller, reschier opponent.

Larkins rushed his man steadily. Dugan tired rapidly in the tenth round, when he resorted to clinching. Once he hip-locked Larkins clean over his shoulder, and the referce admitted that in a stake fight Larkins should have won on the foul.

The eleventh and twelfth rounds were full of repetitions of Dugan's manifest intentions of losing on a foul. He clinched, wrestled and even tried to butt with his head.

The battle and purse were awarded Larkins on a palpable foul, by Dugan in the twelfth round, after the contest had lasted forty-six maniutes. Dugan tripped Larkins and fell on him after having been repeatedly warned.

THE NEW YORK NEWSBOYS.

They Play for Positions on "The Evening World's" Great Nine.

A carload of New York newsboys rode over Brooklyn Bridge yesterday, captured a street-car on the other side of the river and rolled off to Washington Park.

Merry and noisy after their own fashion, the boys owned the City of Churches during their passage through, and after their arrival at the park they owned that also for several

They were all going on trial for position in THE EVENING WORLD newsboy nine. They could all play ball, and they knew it. More-over, they all did it, and it was with difficulty, after seeing them perform on and about the diamond, that their numbers could be sifted down towards the required strength for organization.

Twelve were finally chosen, from whom the selection of Detroit Journal demoralizers will be made. These twelve will be first pitted against the boys chosen by the management of the Brooklyn Worn office, and for the next month the several batteries, the infielders and the guardians of the outfield will be put through a very constant system of practice.

Then let the Wolverine newsboys come on and let them bring that cup; for we want it, right here in New York.

The opening game between the New York boys and those from the Brooklyn office will be played at Washington Park to-morrow morning.

HENRY A. MOTT, PH.D., LL.D.

Dr. Buckland's SCOTCH OATS ESSENCE is Nature's own tonic, pure, reliable, harmless and marvellous in its action. It is free from every conceivable form or trace of any injurious ingredient of any kind, and the systematic persecution which has been pursued against it for months past has originated solely in business and professional jealousy and an endeavor to stamp out if possible so valuable a remedy and one which has played such havoe with the ordinary trade in proprietary medicines.

SCOTCH OATS ESSENCE is safe for the octogenarian, the adult, the schoolboy and the infant. It has cured disease after disease that has been pronounced hopeless by some of our most eminent physicians. There is not an eminent medical manin the prefession to-day, if he is liberal minded, unbiassed and honest, who will not attest to the marvellous effects of SCOTCH OATS ESSENCE in the most dangerous diseases.

A SWINDLING INSURANCE MAN.

Thousands Victimized by an Alleged Agents of a Defunct Company. [SPECIAL TO THE WORLD. !

BIRMINGHAM, Conn., May 1.-H. A. Ster. ling, agent for the New York Live Stock Mutual Benefit Association, 265 Broadway, was arrested here to-day charged with issuing policies without license from the State and fraud. If true its victims number thousands in this State. Sterling could not furnish bonds of $1,000, and is in jail for trial tomorrow.

The concern known as the Live Stock Mutual Benefit Association had offices in the Marvin Safe Company Building at 255 Broadway up to about three months age, when they failed, and ostensibly went out of business. The President of the company was Louis W. McKenzie and the Secretary George T. Keith, neither of whom left any address with the janitor of the building. Since the failure a great many people have called to obtain information regarding the company, which made a business of insuring cattle and live stock, but could get nothing.

The company, however, still has a lockbox at the Post-Office, and receives mail which is collected regularly.

The Post-Office authorities say that they will investigate the matter if there is sufficient evidence that the mails are being used for swindling purposes.

Ex-Policemon Rickerd in Stripes. SING SING, May L .- Ex-Policeman Charles R ck erd, who was railroaded from New York yesterday for burglary, was admitted as a regular prisoner this morning. He was placed in the "bummers" gane," which does odd jobs. His cell is 721, on the name tier with Ferdinand Ward.

THE WORLD: TUESDAY EVENING, MAY 1, 1888.

But, if readers of advertisements insist upon the exercise of their personal rights in the matter, we yield the well-taken point, and beg the privilege of a brief review, with an address to ladies, as follows, viz. :

1. That in the later days of 1887 we purchased the Dry Goods Establishment, with the properties therein contained at the convenient corner we now occupy, where we endeavor to conduct business on a plan of mutual interest, as between the buyer and seller.

2. Our first endeavor, after possession, pointed to the sale, at some price, of a major portion of the stock bought from our respected predecessors, and to substitute therefor a selection of goods better adapted to the wants of ladies in all the stations of life, IN WHICH WE HAVE HAD SUCCESS.

3. We have in course so improved the internal arrangements of the store, the variety and character of the stock, and so impressed those among our aids as may have required it with the value of kindly and polite attention that we are encouraged daily with expressions of appreciation and pleasure from customers of the house, new and old, with what we have thus far achieved at our eligible corner.

4. We believe that we so understand the intricacles of the Dry Coods business, that we are now so equipped with able and intelligent department managers, and that our stock is so well bought and offered at prices that are so moderate, that OURS IS THE CHEAPEST DRY COODS HOUSE IN NEW YORK CITY OR ELSEWHERE IN THE UNITED STATES.

5. Considering the facts embraced in our foregoing statements and the few specifications as to stock which follow. we boldly but respectfully ask for the patronage (at least in part) of every lady, rich or poor, in the city of New York and in the adjacent cities, towns or country. We would particularize in our Stock some lots recently bought at great sacrifice. One is an importer's entire bal-ance of FINE FRENCH CAMEL'S HAIR PANEL ROBES, in light-weight fabrics and colors, drab, tan, fawn, brown and heliotrope, all beautifully embroidered in bead or braid, or both, at the uniform price of $12.50. Nothing of equal value ever seen at so low a price.
